My dear Sir
I have just received your letter of the 10th inst. in relation to the late General Pitt Rivers. I am sorry to hear of his death, and I am sure you will be much affected by the loss of so good a friend. I have just been reading of his death in the London Gazette, and I am sure you will be much affected by the loss of so good a friend.

Yours truly
J. W. Russell

The first of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable exchange rate since the end of the war. This has led to a loss of confidence in the currency and a consequent depreciation of the pound. The second point is that the
 raise sufficient funds to meet its obligations. This has led to a default on its foreign debt and a consequent loss of credit.
 The third point is that the
 reform its tax system. This has led to a loss of revenue and a consequent increase in borrowing.
 The fourth point is that the
 reform its public services. This has led to a loss of efficiency and a consequent increase in costs. The fifth point is that the government has been unable to reform its legal system. This
 in the courts and a consequent increase in corruption.
